

TEACH NEW MINDS WITH CYBER SCHOOL LEARNING

EDUCATION

Remember that teacher who inspired and encouraged you to be your very best? You could do that for a new generation of Australians.

Education offers a real opportunity to make a difference to people's lives. Who knows, one of your students might be the mathematical leader, scientist or engineer who changes the world. Online learning is an emerging market and now allows more students the access and flexibility to courses around the world.

You don't have to work in the classroom either. As well as teaching in primary or secondary schools, teachers work in universities and provide the expertise needed for curriculum development, education management and even government policy. Education offers a secure and flexible career that you can take all around the world.
